1. INTRODUCTION

Planning is the first and most important function of management. In the absence of planning, all the activities of an organisation will become meaningless. The importance of planning in conduct of election has increased all the more in view of the increasing complexities and multifarious activities. The District Election Officer leads the election at District level. They have to prepare for logistics, deployment and capacity building of human resource, increase participation of different stakeholders in the election process, identify the possible vulnerable areas and address them suitably so that the elections are conducted in a free and fair manner. The District Election Management Plan (DEMP in brief) is a document which helps in planning for election preparations at a glance. It presents the essential work to be done in various aspects of election process. The DEMP uses statistics and its analysis for drawing conclusions from it and undertaking detailed and focused planning for conduct of elections in a smooth manner. The Manual on District Election Management Plan is divided into 17 chapters. Information is mostly prepared in tabular format. As per the Election Planner of Election Commission of India, the DEMP is to be prepared at least 6 months before the tentative Poll Day. Preparation of DEMP in advance helps in assessing status and requirements of AMF at Polling Stations, EVM and other logistics, manpower, training, transportation, security force requirement, SVEEP etc. However, many things become clearer as the election is notified and campaign starts formally. So, it becomes necessary to revise/update the plan from time to time. Also, the DEO should get prepared AC-wise election management plans and sector level plans on these lines.

2.3 BRIEF NOTES ON THE DISTRICT

- 1) General: North Kolkata is the oldest part of the city. Characterized by 19th-century architecture and narrow alleyways, it includes areas such as Shyambazar, Shobhabazar, Chitpur, Cossipore, Baranagar, Sinthee and Dum Dum. Central Kolkata hosts the central business district. It contains B.B.D. Bag, formerly known as Dalhousie Square, and the Esplanade on its east; Strand Road is on its west. The West Bengal Secretariat, General Post Office, Reserve Bank of India, High Court, Lalbazar Police Headquarters, and several other government and private offices are located there.
- 2) Administrative: The District Election Officer, Kolkata (North) is the Head of the Office.

- 3) Demography: According to results of the 2011 national census, Kolkata district, which occupies an area of 185 km², had a population of 4,486,679; its population density was 24,252/km². This represents a decline of 1.88% during the decade 2001–11. The sex ratio is 908 females per 1000 males—lower than the national average. The ratio is depressed by the influx of working males from surrounding rural areas, from the rest of West Bengal, and from neighbouring states, mainly Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, and Orissa; these men commonly leave their families behind.
- 4) Bengali people forms the majority of Kolkata's population; Marwaris and Biharis compose large minorities. Among Kolkata's smaller communities are Chinese, Tamils, Nepalis, Odias, Telugus, Gujaratis, Anglo-Indians, Armenians, Greeks, Tibetans etc. Bengali, the official state language, is the dominant language in Kolkata. English is also used extensively. Hindi and Urdu are spoken by a sizeable minority.
- 5) Terrain: Kolkata is located in the eastern part of India with a latitude & longitude of 22.5667° N, 88.3667° E, respectively. It has spread linearly along the banks of the Hooghly River. The whole area is in the Ganges Delta and is monotonously plain. As with most of the Indo-Gangetic Plain, the soil and water are predominantly alluvial in origin. Kolkata is located over the “Bengal basin”.
- 6) Socio-economic and cultural peculiarities: Kolkata is the main business, commercial and financial hub of eastern India and the main port of communication for the North-East Indian states, It is one of the most important metros of India.

- 7) Kolkata has been the pioneering city in Indian renaissance. It has long been known for its literary, artistic and revolutionary heritage.
